

'Where the image breaks down'

It's certainly been quite a week.

The apostate system manifestly continue on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, or at least continue not to firmly declare and establish themselves on a Divine Will and True Nature-aligned basis, which amounts to the same thing. A causal perusal of even the week's overt headlines is enough to establish that. They also [manifestly continue in supposed "\[Chaos\] mode"](#), apparently acknowledging that what they present is inherently non-credible or unreliable.

It's from that basis that early in the week, renewed non-overt hype of implications began to be noticed again implying that I've been up to some less than 'aboveboard' non-overt antics, specifically that I've supposedly been deploying the sort of 'double inversion' mode non-overt linguistics usually reserved for personal and recreational interests as some kind of attempt to subvert the place non-overtly using stealth. And the unfounded hype of same continued to 'ramp up' throughout the week. How kind. The apostate system or at least 'their' [Isis] contingent know quite well that it's not the case, so that's certainly interesting. It would inform Me, had I somehow managed to miss the overt headlines and atrocities they were still manufacturing, that they're still manifestly not on a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis. Non-overtly implied calumnies from an inherently non-credible basis are of course insufficient to resolve this situation, and there's no compelling case for them to make about it because there is no case. I've been striving to mentor others in Divine Will principles, yes, and they haven't yet adopted a Divine Will- and True Nature aligned basis, yes, and I've been addressing the situation and providing grace and counsel on it. That is part of a normal mentorship process, something with which I have to infer that the apostate system is quite familiar.

As I've stated here before, those who are not on a clear, Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis do not and cannot yet represent either Divine Will, nor My own interests, which are Divine Will-aligned and -derived. Implications to the contrary would of course lack substantiation.

'Moonlighting'

We also this week finish the 'Moonlighting' series, with its last ep titled 'Lunar Eclipse'. The title is interesting not only because it symbolically depicts [Isis] (via "The Moon"), in a [mask] with the result being [darkness], but also because of something which they'd done back in season two's Christmas episode. I'd encountered it back years ago now, when I'd still been out on the street getting p[un]ted around by their [fixblight] like a figurative p[un]b[ill], and before I'd discontinued and then resumed the series. Having done the Christmas-centric ep, they did a nifty little bonus piece at the end in which apparently the whole production crew presented on-screen. At the time I'd interpreted this to mean they were finally going to 'show up', to b[e] present in alignment with their Divinely-conferred True Nature. It was certainly about time. Instead as we now know they did not, and manifestly produced merely more of the same. It would appear that I'd been a little 'too optimistic' in My interpretation, and neglected to account for the [French]-via-[Aphrodite] organizing symbolism of My "House" in which [falling], representing both [high] and [low], manifest and unmanifest venues, is or was used as a symbolic mode like [male] and [female], to simultaneously describe situations via an 'is true in one sense, is inverted when parsed in another' which the whole series tends to deploy. Alright, so if that instance of 'presenting in their True capacity' was intended as 'inverted', surely a "Lunar Eclipse" would suggest here actually doing so finally. Perhaps? Unless of course they were relying on [one-handed] in the first instance, and [darkness] in the second, to ostensibly symbolically 'negate' any intended meaning by it.

We start off the last ep with a similar trope, [both 'is and is not' \[working\] from a \[dream\]](#) into a 'perfect moment' representing the True State of Creation. And throughout the ep we also have some very definite 'callbacks' to what I've been presenting here recently: to the "Wet T-Shirt Contest", to "Freefall", and to the metaphor I'd presented about manifest b[e]havior supposedly per the apostate system not "going down on anybody's permanent record".

I'll put the analytics on 'Moonlighting' on pause for a moment to provide some context on more of the current non-overt intimations going on in the here and now, by presenting a section I'd written earlier in the week, and then we'll get back to it.

'Where the image breaks down'

Monday evening a friend had posted some images of classic muscle cars and it reminded Me that given the situation I'd been intending to look up some remixes of Gary Numan's song 'Cars'; given the apostate system's position and their recent emphasis on 'double inversions' it had become relevant again Re: Divine Will principles and it's effective to keep relevant concepts around so I can focus on them. There were quite a few remixes of it by now, but it took a while before I found some I deemed actually 'listenable'. The best I'd found were here and here for example. The former 'required' a little editing for My tastes, such as using algorithms to remove the extraneous vocals at the opening and to shorten the fade-out at the end. The latter I saw was actually accessible over on Bandcamp, which likely would make for a better-quality version of the audio. 'Ah! This just came out recently in fact, and it's part of an Eighties remix album.' I skimmed the other remixes on it to see if there was anything else I'd find relevant, or to refresh My memory on neglected Eighties content. Hmm, a lot of it was early Eighties stuff, practically Seventies by the sound of it, and came out while I'd still been oblivious to the media or living overseas for a while.

And then I noticed that one of My earliest media memories was on there. It was as I was just starting to become aware of the media, and they'd played it seemingly incessantly. It was Olivia Newton-John's 'Magic'. I couldn't but notice it, and as a literal child of about three at the time it definitely captured My imagination, along with 'America's similarly [magic]-themed tune. It had started My fascination with the thought that there must be 'something greater' out there, some 'greater forces' that conventional society just wasn't aware of or in alignment with, and likely influenced My early interest in literal stage magic. It wouldn't be until I'd started high school that they'd have someone approach Me apparently offering a literal apprenticeship in magic.

So I considered that Olivia Newton-John tune again. Its messaging was essentially true to form with regard to what the apostate system's [Isis], [Aphrodite] etc. have been 'offering' Me, particularly recently. I notice that what's actually being 'offered' was extremely carefully-worded. I'd encountered the song back when they were apparently offering it with their [France]-via-[Aphrodite] disappointment when I'd been directed to the [1980] film 'Xandu', which had been all about modern [muses] and [Aphrodite] inspiring someone and making their life a success. And given the lyrics, it appears to be the consistent 'offer' of [wish]-fulfillment from their manifestly counter-Divine Will-presented basis, with all the usual supposed 'rules of magic' as they've been implying them. In other words, the same 'offer to contract' that I've been rejecting quite intentionally and to which I've presented certain very specific questions and objections, along with prerequisites for evidence in order to establish Divine Will-consistent legitimacy there. They've thus far apparently been ignored, yet I appear to keep having the same rather suspicious 'offer' being presented as though I'd raised no objections. I should remind all involved, the law recognizes that literal 'silence when there is a duty to speak is evidence of fraud'. Disregarding objections and requirements for evidence as though they just didn't exist, presumably because they're deemed inconvenient to an agenda, not only is disrespect and not how to resolve a disagreement, it's not even representative of their Divinely-conferred True Nature. And manifestly continuing with the rampant Lawlessness internationally, in practically every aspect of life, and trying to just psychologically condition Me into acceptance of a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature-predicated 'contract' is an encroachment of free will by superior numbers and influence. If they're striving to incite Me to redouble My resistance to their manifest position, basis and offer, this is certainly how to successfully accomplish that.

Readers, have a look at those 'terms and conditions', carefully. And consider the sort of behavior pattern that the apostate system and even their [Isis]-[Aphrodite] have been manifestly Choosing, even recently. It shows them to still be on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis and any alleged 'offer to contract' would be ultimately unsatisfying, as well as illegitimate due to its inherent Lawlessness. Unenforceable in Law it could only be enforceable through clout, that's all. It's therefore Lawless fraud purporting to be Law, and we've manifestly encountered that from the apostate system all too frequently.

Just supposing after all their efforts with Me, I Chose against the phenomenal loss-making, un-Creation enterprise they're 'offering' Me? That despite all their manifest conditioning, rhetoric, sophistry and abuse I Choose and insist upon Divine Will and their True Nature instead? Because I not only 'believe' in those, I know per Divine Will principles that they're the facts. So what if despite their apparent lifelong conditioning efforts what they actually got instead was a [Horus] individual Who'd genuinely, authentically Chosen Divine Will and True Nature instead? The sort of thing they've been at least implying to the rank and file personnel that they'd wanted all along. That'd be quite an organizational boon, and an act of Divine Will. What's more, I have to suppose that the telepaths and propheciers were quite able to 'see' this ahead of time; it can hardly come as a surprise to them.

The formula of the apostate system has been to manifestly present supposed 'offers to contract'; its the manner of the Divine Will-aligned to present clear and quite firm 'Notice and Demand'. Because what the Divine Will-aligned are doing is presenting the Law. Manifest non-compliance is Lawlessness, which is ultimately liability. It's inherent in everybody's Divinely-conferred True Nature to love the Law once they know it, so there's no inherent problem with providing assistance of counsel to facilitate their Choice to realign with it. But while they're refusing they're essentially living as their own [absurd] self-parodies, and while they're doing that it's only appropriate to give it a bit of a figurative 'send-up'. We all deserve better than for ourselves or others to live as breathing non sequitors who are Choosing un-Creation and making the place miserable while they're doing so.

I'm noticing the [blonde haired] and 'sweetness and light' motif with which they'd presented 'Xandu', yet I notice they were intensely precise with their wording and the specifics of their 'offer', sort of like the distinction between an advertising campaign's implications and the actual 'legalese' of the product itself. I can't but think that Olivia Newton-John singing wouldn't have received quite the same public appreciation had its presentation been consistent with their apparent 'terms and conditions' and apparent counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis on which they still manifestly remain. Those same lyrics as sung by a chorus of [female] [Disney] [cartoon] [villains], for example. They'd take on a whole new meaning. Or rather, present what appears to have been their true meaning the whole time.

While we're at it, I trust we can dispense with the recent (and recently-organized, apparently) [Isis] trend of presenting as though they were 'offering' Me everything (or indeed anything) I genuinely desire, figuratively 'the world on a platter' and that as they'd stated they'll 'bring all [My] dreams alive', all from a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. The built-in implied subtext 'of course' being that in rejecting all that, by insisting on Divine Will and True Nature just as they'd non-overtly begged Me to do, for all our sakes, that I'm instead just being obstinate and unreasonable here. Obstinate and unreasonable is manifestly insisting on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis and being part of an organization internationally providing Lawlessness, routine mass murders and so much more, when it's quite obvious they can have done better especially by now. I not only 'believe in', I know our True Nature is Divine Will-derived and -aligned, and this from them certainly isn't it. And as there's no legitimate nor sincere reason for it, we have every reasonable expectation not to have to endure it. I'm still Choosing to uphold a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis for all our sakes, even theirs. But unless they manage to resolve this by comprehensively and completely realigning with Divine Will and their own True Nature, including whatever supernatural agencies are underwriting their capabilities so that this can get restored retroactively, I'm presumably going to have to infer that all these years of awfulness followed by some eventual supposed reconciliation instead merely represents the [Szchuan], 'this 'n' that' incomplete and insincere Choice for Divine Will and True Nature, the figurative 'package deal', and necessarily reject that too. I can't emphasize that plainly enough: I see them manifestly continuing to 'paint themselves into a corner' knowingly, Willfully and avoidably, and it doesn't look like I'm going to be able to assist them in getting out of it given the situation as I understand it and the legitimate options I'm aware of here. Even now, I'm looking out for their best interests. 'Don't let your aim ever stray'? In the [French]-[Aphrodite] sense of keeping ones' focus and intent on the Divine Will-oriented [core] of the matter? That's exactly what I'm doing.

And that's the distinction between presenting an image of benevolence, and presenting the actual substance.

I can't [eat] the [honey] that they intermittently drip; I can't accept them at an insincere Choice for Divine Will and True Nature, because accepting them on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis certainly wouldn't be very Loving of Me, would it? I can't let them get away with that. Figurative 'tough Love', and they've manifestly been making it have to be so in their contempt for Divine Will and the Law, let alone their own True Natures. It would only compound the injustice to present Me as the buddy guy here, just for upholding Divine Will and True Nature just as I'm supposed to. And without which, their whole counter-Divine Will [Osiris] formula would just repeat again, to everyone's manifest detriment, until someone else caught the error or Divine Will intervened itself. Honestly, I feel a little like someone who's trying to explain to a socialist why everything in life can't just be free. And what's more I know they know better than this; that I don't even have to explain it to them for their own sake. Just to publicly present the evidence of their manifestly-ongoing Choice for a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, and neutralize the effects of their Lawless efforts as much as is reasonably possible.

For why would Someone who knows their True Nature is Divinely-conferred and -aligned ever expect less, let alone this intensity of [absurd]ity less? There's certainly no reason to.

New content from [Isis]

Also Monday, the new ep of 'Welcome to Night Vale' came out. It appeared to be something of a non-overt conciliatory mea culpa, particularly with the buffet promo, and the music chart bit certainly seemed relevant. The [dream] part was just close enough to the actual [flashlight]-inspired mini-nightmares I continually have about having childhood authority figures, usually school administrators, threaten to have Me arrested if they find Me because I'm 'not allowed on the property' wherever I am, to successfully allude to them. The 'find your desk' bit does seem to allude to what the [Isis] subdivision have been up to: presenting a plethora of counter-Divine Will (here via the [posterior] symbol) alternatives, and nothing other than, from which I can Choose and of course none of them are valid nor worthwhile. So I literally went to sleep with it slipping, with the more mellow remix of 'Cars' on in the background, since I usually notice something additional when I've slept on that content. And sure enough, I awoke to have it 'click' into place that between the Olivia Newton-John song and the Night Vale ep they appeared to be shifting to an 'overt only' implied messaging format.

I've seen them do this before. My "House" has an 'overt only' mode too, but of course that presupposes that the person trying to get onto it is on a legitimate, verifiably Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis; they're literally relying on the legitimate value of their overt content and behavior; we don't typically find them being complicit with an organization pulling the same Lawless crime spree antics the apostate system manifestly does, as that would invalidate their basis. What the apostate system manifestly does overtly is obviously invalid, and what it does non-overtly also invalid. They're figuratively, er, 'Wanted' in the criminal outlawry sense in both venues. So it's not as though they can just 'revert to their overt basis' when they've spent the credibility of their non-overt; they've already 'spent that nick' long ago and still continue to compound their problem there.

I've also seen them non-overtly attempt to excuse clear counter-Divine Will position identifiers with the rationalization that, 'Ah, those! Yes, we're in a symbolic mode which doesn't mean anything by them; just disregard them!' Usually deployed via the organizing symbolism of [marijuana] and its associated concepts and imagery. And it seems to be convincing to a significant proportion of the non-overt demographic. Curious though isn't it that whatever they're doing, whatever 'mode' they're supposedly in at any given time, the usage remains consistent and the problem doesn't get sorted out. That's of course a method I've long found unacceptable personally and professionally, and My "House" recognizes that too. It would parse that sort of non-overtly implied basis in the 'reject or expose' sense of the [one-handed] concept rather than the 'informal or overtly-intended' sense. 'Ah, we're just going to rest on the accumulated merit of our overt basis!', the apostate system appears to imply. Right, the one where they're pilling mass murder, theft of whole countries' economies, routinely and systematically defrauding the public and so on? I'm not entirely sure that's something they actually want to do here. It's as though there's someone on trial for a multitude of capital offenses, and as the trial is nearly concluded they take advantage of a court recess to hit the various members of the jury up for sizeable personal loans on the supposed basis that, 'I'll totally get you back for it! You know I'm good for it, just ask anyone!'

And part of the non-overtly implied excuse for the manifest delay in realigning with a legitimate Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis has been the supposed 'need to get the rank and file personnel all notified and familiarized and on-side with the transition!' Curious then how rapidly they appear to be propagating and deploying all these various counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature-predicated non-overt narratives, directives, sophistry and the like, yet they just don't seem to be able to manage doing the same with the one thing that genuinely matters. It's as though they'll do practically 'anything but that!' And essentially, that's the ongoing Choice for an illegitimate counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis whose eventual manifestation appears to be their own un-Creation. And there's no valid reason for it; it's indefensible.

Precisely because it's indefensible, it started looking as skeezy as all get-out. All the manifest investment in these various antics, rather than just do the right thing? And that's where I have the unfortunate Duty to present evidence of what appears to be a non-overtly implied admission from them of deliberately delaying things until or unless I Chose a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. Sure, it's as inherently non-credible as everything else they present non-overtly from an illegitimate basis. However they're still obviously organizing the rank and file personnel for various narratives, agenda items, directives and so on with it, so inherently credible or not it does appear to be what they're using. And of course whether they actually meant it or not, it's 'unsustainable' regardless as they're losing perceived credibility both overtly and among the rank and file personnel for as long as they manifestly persist on this basis and I continue to reject it. Eventually whether because it's inherently contradictory both to Law and to their own True Nature, or through a matter of mere logistics, they'll have to wear themselves out doing it regardless.

Meanwhile we appear to have merely the latest in a manifest succession of non-overtly deployed frumpiness of dysfunctional non-overt image while the actual substance and Choice for same remains lacking. Whatever "radio frequency" they Choose to 'skip over to' to imply their whatever messaging, the situation manifestly remains the same and their basis just as illegitimate. These appear to just be frivolous irrelevancies, which are neither legitimized by nor successfully distract from their manifestly Lawless basis. Seems all that effort could be a lot better served if they'd apply it to doing the only sane thing here, because they're manifestly quite literally 'being impossible'.

Given the amount of writing it would require this week to expose all this let alone the implied content in the 'Mentoring' ep, I had a lot to figuratively cover. And it was only early Tuesday morning.

Re: "Water rights", standards and ethics

As a personal and professional aside to certain non-overtly aware people involved, I should presumably add per Duty a clarification. Recently I've noticed the [Is's] contingent appearing to routinely throw in imagery and symbolism into relevant content I've been reviewing which is apparently relevant to specific interpersonal mentorships and relationships with non-overtly aware individuals. These have typically also been inherently 'counter-Divine Will basis identifier symbols'. As such they've been appearing throughout some of the recent media that I've been presenting here exclusively as evidence. I can reasonably assume this has been noticed by the specific individuals involved, too. What I need to clarify is that the inclusion of those symbols and imagery by [Is's] doesn't automatically make them intended deployments of them by Myself; I don't think I've been using for example non-overt symbols intentionally as an interpersonal messaging protocol, which would presumably be cause for concern. My "House" doesn't do that, in the sense that the apostate system deploys its [marijuana] symbolic formula at least (a strategy which I've added to the Lexicon this week, rather than wait until the full release of this piece). We do tend to add things like a [one-handed] emphasis to things which are typically parsed as 'counter-Divine Will basis declaratory symbols' when they do genuinely occur in life and are not reasonably avoidable, to make our Choice of basis clear for others. We don't however s---t about blithely using them as valid symbols and imagery for messaging whether interpersonally or professionally; just as I redact for a very definite and [vital] reason. So in order to sort out any misunderstandings on that, personnel interested in interpersonal or professional relationships can safely interpret and presumably should do so, any apparent 'counter-Divine Will basis declarator' imagery and symbols from Me as being on an unavoidable basis and free of any and all non-overt messaging intent. I admit, I've been including a number of 'c---llback' references to specific people in these pieces. That's usually been a matter of the plain fact that My mind has genuinely been on them quite a bit of late, and that includes getting influenced by that while I'm free-associating to media evidence. That's just how the nature of basic human psychology works; I've even found Myself occasionally writing in the style of David and Maddie after all the 'M---n---ghting' eps I've been watching. People figuratively 'grow on you'. I'm not entirely sure that's categorizable as 'avoidable' behavior as in the sense of 'a knowing, willful and avoidable Choice'. It wouldn't do to have individuals with whom I'm trying to relate misinterpret Me, nor to have those I've been attempting to mentor infer that lower standards are in effect than in fact are. The matter could become even more convoluted than that, particularly if the apostate system imply concerns whether sincere or otherwise that the lines between legitimate interpersonal relationships and professionally-relevant activities is becoming rather indistinct. That last of course would be a matter of slight importance if any while the apostate system itself manifestly remains on an outLaw basis, as one can hardly apply recourse in Law while they remain outside it by their own Choice. But I do strive to keep things figuratively 'aboveboard' to the best of My ability; it tends to have a constructive effect when it comes to not 'splitting the vote' with regard to public support, to everybody's collective detriment. And that's My Duty satisfied on that matter, while I think appropriately respecting and upholding the privacy rights of those involved and continuing My efforts to provide mentorship to apparent [minors] with regard to Divine Will principles, ample 'grace time', and 'Notice and Demand'. Though it would probably further assist all involved to also clarify that I'm not and haven't been seeking 'favors' from groups nor individuals who aren't clearly establishing themselves on a legitimate Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis (which incidentally leaves Me without much support given that so few now are); rather, I've been actively striving to do them 'favors'. Yes, even as we've seen the apostate system even if not quite as they might prefer My going about it; getting them sorted out with regard to Divine Will and True Nature alignment is something that's in all our interests, if only they'll Choose to do so on their part. I've already presented quite plainly and distinctly that those who aren't upholding clear Divine Will- and True Nature-alignment as their basis are by definition representing neither Divine Will nor My own. And I find the apostate system's near-continual implied claims that all manner of 'layers' of intermediary franchises with personnel diminishing those basic minimum standards of Divine Will and True Nature alignment to be inherently non-credible from the start, particularly as all this apparently could've been resolved retroactively ab initio. They're doing neither Myself nor Divine Will any 'favors'; they're instead manifestly doing all involved disfavours and racking up the liability for same. Just more sophistry from a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, and the organization routinely deploys it. I've been upholding a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis for decades, and they know it, and we've seen them [fixblight] on Me for it instead. Any excuse, it seems. I've added the strategy of abusing claims of 'necessity' to rationalize lapses in upholding Divine Will and True Nature by franchises and rank and file personnel here along with disproofs for it.

Managing fair and constructive standards regarding the avoidance of 'counter-

Divine Will basis declarator symbols is something of an 'effort in process' for Me; given all the manifest [f▯xbl▯ght] interpersonal rel▯tionships were usually fleeting in any event, and I hadn't become sufficiently familiar with the apostate system's manifest system and methodology of counter-Divine Will symbols until comparatively recently. I'm certainly Willing to reevaluate any practices which seem unfair to others, but the caveat there is that while they're routinely still throwing counter-Divine Will declaratory symbols ar▯nd themselves the necessary trust that any concerns they express are actually sincere is lacking, and that's a prerequisite (or at least should be) for My reasonably having to invest My time and effort into someones' implied concerns, lest more of My time and effort b▯come wasted by mere calculated sophistries and calumnies on their part because they're still not Choosing a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis.

And now, back to 'M▯n▯l▯ghting'

This ep continues with its recent trope of [s▯xually-transmitted dise▯se] references, here and here. It seems to have started the trope a few weeks ago our time over here, and other than the usual prevalent non-overt symbolic definition I didn't have a context into which to place what, if indeed any, meaning or relevance it had. The conventional meaning has to do with supposed 'resistance' efforts being invested in, usually non-overtly, on an illegitimate counter-Divine Will basis, often through interpersonal rel▯tionships. That is, it's an implementation of their ancient [Ven▯s] symbol: counter-Divine Will basis, non-overt venue, suppose 'resistance' efforts which actually aren't. And given the non-overt trope of this in the modern eps, the references to "having a r▯sh" and "having po▯son iv▯" could also be categorizable under those auspices. But where if anywhere was the supposed relevance?

Leaving that to one side for the moment, we also see implied references to the apostate system continuing to try to get Me to [m▯rry] into it. Herbert, ostensibly representing 'the new generation' of the apostate system, is unflatteringly fre▯king out about it and in the process, c▯lling the scheme accurately as I see it. Implied of course is the idea that he's just misperceiving it because he's so fundamentally m▯ladjusted. David's response? That "nobody's putting a g▯n to your he▯d". Ain't that the truth. Literally spe▯king, that would be quicker and painless. Maddie's cous▯n Annie's actual husb▯nd sh▯ws up, and things g▯ absolutely b[un]kers when she does, too. In an effort to keep husb[an]d and w[ife] from encountering each other (perhaps a non-overt reference to the superstition that it's awful [il]l[uck] for a prospective [br]ide and [gr]am to [see] each other immediately before the [w]edding, something that wouldn't apply to the overt content but which'd be immensely relevant to the actual situation here), Maddie and David take it upon themselves to baffle him with complete time-wasting babble (and here's part deux of that, ft. "weiners" and Georgia O'Keeffe. Ms. O'Keeffe was of course a renowned [a]rtist who specialized in [pa]inting huge instances of [f]emale gen[italia] made to resemble [flow]ers and [natural] landscapes. It's apparently great stuff if you're into that sort of thing.) We then have David figuratively sweating over an encounter with the husband, uncertain over whether or not he's learned David and w[ife] have been 'cheating' on him together. Much of the conv[er]sation is spent with David trying to discreetly discern what the husb[an]d actually thinks is going on, unsure of what the situation actually looks like to him and dre[ad]ing the result. This [fe]ar appears to be congruent with the non-overt symbolic reference to it via [the "\[anxiety\]-induced" \[h\]iccups earlier](#); [sc]ring a person being conventional wisdom as a c[are] for them.

Meanwhile Herbert and Miss DiP[isto] (representing the suppose 'new apostate system generation of management') are [prepping for their announced \[m\]arriage together](#), but [Herbert's more interested in another \[man\]](#). As he m[en]tions, it's the same [guy] who'd been following him earlier. Apparently nonplussed at first, Miss DiP[isto]'s solution is [to put him into symbolic \[arm\] the \[col\]or of \[the S\]un](#), relevant to that [\[White\] \[Kn\]ight](#) strategy and organizing symbolism I'd had to publicly expose earlier this week. After plenty more frustration at his continued preoccupation, she eventually [struts out into the \[shopping m\]all in \[negl\]ee and gives him a sassy, off-col\]or and utterly \[absurd\] what-for](#). A [shopping m]all pertains symbolically to the apostate system's counter-Divine Will-predicated franchises, represented by the [\[corporation\]](#) symbol, together establishing a situation in which an outsider seems to have all the free Choice in the w[or]ld... but they're ultimately all for the same thing. It's therefore unusual to see the present-era [Is]s being depicted in a state of comparative [undr]ess, particularly in that kind of a situation. I'll admit, I'm curious to see when if ever that actually happens. Then in the [c]r [p]rk lot, Herbert finally gets his man. Sort of. The symbolic result is 'a br[oken] [jaw]', for which Miss DiP[isto] is quick to get him med[ic]al attention. I sort of fre[k]ed out when I first saw the scene because a [c] [p] presents a basis of [d] or [b], indicating either a counter-Divine Will basis, an overt 'literal' basis, or indeed both in the symbolism of My "House". In the apostate system's prevalent symbolism though, it would represent either a successful or unsuccessful outcome of an effort for 'downlow gay s' depending on whether one or both people involved were actually 'resistance'-aligned. Here however, it appears more oriented toward the [Aphrodite]ish symbolism of My "House" just as with all the 'broken [rt]' and 'broken [musical instrument]' tropes we've been encountering, and which indeed was the situation and reference to which that had caused Me to resume watching the series in, er, if not the first place then more accurately the second place. As in, people whether they're an apostate system, or an [Is] subdivision of same, or just on an individual basis, while they're non-overtly declaring a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis they're 'not talking right'. And by definition they cannot be trusted. That if anything precludes My attempting to Work with or even trust those who are on such a basis, whether [Is], friends-plus or whatever. And there's the establishment of a complete lack of motive on My part to collude and conspire with people on that basis to do so. Not only would it not result in a manifest situation I want, it wouldn't even be logistically feasible even if it would. Even on a mere temporal level, the manifest 'duress' profusely supplied by the apostate system precludes that as an option, along with precluding quite a lot of worthwhile friends-plus camaraderie, intimacy and quality of life experiences. And boy is that a manifest injustice with which I'm thoroughly fed up. Yet they and the personnel they've affected have remained on that invalid, untrustworthy basis regardless, and with the general public currently still effectively shiftless and unaware of the situation the apostate system has contrived it's still routine and systematic injustice to Myself and commensurate liability to the organization. Here and now at least, and forever long it manifestly lasts, it looks as though the apostate system's knowing, willful and avoidable Choice for a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis is the cause of those who remain Divine Will-aligned to find themselves unable to 'have nice things'. For [sh]. We often hear of things being "pre-empted", but symbolically at least we'd appear to have them "post-empted", in the symbolism of My "House" that is, due to the apostate system's manifest, continuing refusal to respect the supremacy of a Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis. In the sense of Divine Will, that's a massive loss-making enterprise. Another non-overtly organized injustice, manufactured by those conspiring on an illegitimate counter-Divine Will basis of 'rebellion' against the legitimate Divine Will Authority. How nice, then, to encounter the very same non-overtly implied allegations against Myself from their inherently non-credible counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. That's effectively a complete 'reversal' of the situation, because 'of course' it is. That's the nature of the basis they're manifestly on. For no sincere reason, and completely indefensibly.

We get closure on the David-and-Annie 'cheating' subplot when she finds he's betrayed her in just the same manner. Isn't that always the way when it comes to accepting a counter-Divine Will basis, and why it's a non-starter to do that. We then find that David actually did the right thing \(sort of\) in that he'd hired one of the office girls under the false pretense of casework, specifically to get 'caught' by Annie. Maddie's quite upset about it, and uses a counter-Divine Will declaratory signal as used by the apostate system's Zionist franchise ([alliteration] of the twenty-second letter of the alphabet), which in this context would supposedly 'invert' that via the [tw[n] symbolism due to it being a derivative symbol of [k[tsune]. When she finds out, she uses another [k[tsune] derivative symbol, "[tr[ck]ed".

Herbert and Miss DiPisto have an amusing and characteristically [\[absurd\] parody of a bafflingly fruitcake-y California wedding](#). Symbolically the pastor's speech references the idols [B[il] (via [l[ght]), [Aphrod[te] (via [jew[il]), a counter-Divine Will basis (via both of those), [Isht[er] variously [In[anna] via the gender-binding r[les, "[Ch[as] mode" via the same, and [k[tsune] via the [male]+[f[emale] (that last being an ancient symbolic trope which is seeming less and less appropriate the more I think about it, considering). The pastor then adds [Tiam[ut] (via "gen[etic] and "tendr[ls]), and "infin[ity]" as an Eg[ptian] reference to the "coiled serpent" representing its version of supposed alignment with Divine Will as a prerequisite for office (and for which, Facebook's parent corporation had semi-recently changed its logo to publicly announce). But at least the "Great... Whatever" was included disparagingly in there amongst all the various idols, so there's that.

In the ep we also had glimpses of MacGillicuddy apparently reconciling with Herbert. They've had an on-screen rivalry as we've seen for seasons, and I've seen the organizing symbolism and behavior too frequently not to recognize it as representing 'download s[x] flirting as done between two individuals who are on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. Here though it seems to be finally getting corrected, with MacGillicudy doing the right thing, representative of getting onto a legitimate, Divine Will-aligned basis. Or is he? He references a previous bachelor party David had thrown, with 'that tucky stripper', but that was Herbert who'd had to fall in because the stripper hadn't shown up. So that would've been another 'a'g' at Herbert, same as per usual. Except that MacGillicudy hadn't known. So was this meant as inadvertent, overt comedy, or a mere pretense at reconciliation? Or as an indicator that things between them would continue, just on a legitimate, Divine Will-aligned basis now? It's not an easy read, with the imagery and symbolism left figuratively like a coin on its edge there. And not only does it effectively not matter as the apostate system's non-overt intimations can't be solidly trusted while it remains on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, it's perhaps for the best. When it comes to interpersonal relationships they presumably should have included themselves out right from the start.

The MacGillicudy thing finds its resolution just as reality itself is breaking down because the show has been canceled. It leaves the non-overt account of Herbert and MacGillicudy indistinct, as it likely should: was it a [heart attack], or that his false persona had just lapsed, or referencing the sort of Choice to reject his True Nature which results ultimately in un-Creation as I'd described in My last? We're left without an answer on that, though we've seen [heart attack] quite a few times recently in the show and it tends to symbolically allude (among various other things) to causing someone to literally freak out by deploying lots and lots of non-overt implications which have no sincerity to them and which lack actual substance. Which is, you know, a great illustration the apostate system manifestly makes quite systematically for its own basis as that which is the Choice for un-Creation. And between the literal series ending right here and My own metaphysical evaluation in My last, this episode's ending must've been a 'callback' to it which was irresistible to the writers.

And that's what we see presented now. The characters find their reality being removed from them, aware that they've only got a limited time left to change... something to avoid un-Creation, and we're overtly treated to a formulaic breakdown of the show and analysis of why it was canceled. Which incidentally is also a non-overt bunch of implied messaging, parsable either as 'All this is over, because you Chose the [Ven's] setup and now your Divine Will-aligned Authority is deemed null and void', or, with symbolic 'inversions' applied, the implication that because the True Nature of the personnel of the apostate system is ultimately and intrinsically Divine Will-aligned, it and they will persist forever and cannot be un-Created under any circumstances. Or just the idea that their True Nature in alignment with Divine Will must ultimately 'out', and that the situation for the organization and its personnel is still recoverable through some option I'm either unfamiliar with or through the counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature 'spirit entity' principal Choosing instead a legitimate basis and thus enabling a legitimate retroactive solution to all this. Then again, non-overt messaging is only as reliable as the basis on which it's predicated and even now they're still Choosing, past and present, a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis.

Fun Fact: In the opening credits, the 'Producer', 'Cy', metaphorically representing the Divine Creating their reality and giving them [life] is titled as 'Walter Bishop'. Instead, 'Walter Bishop' was the in-show name of the character who'd just spontaneously encountered and married Maddie (presumably to in-show account for her off-screen absence due to pregnancy), which caused the series to take its alleged narrative (which hadn't actually been all that steep). Both 'Walter Bishop' and 'Cy' were depicted by the same actor.

In an effort to boost ratings enough to [live], David and Maddie rush to the (Roman Catholic, of course) church to get [married], instanta. But their foundational intentions aren't sincere, the whole genuine basis for their relationship is lacking, and the priest refuses in unspoken disgust.

'If we could just have these five years to do over again'

That's quite a curious thing for 'their' [Isis] subdivision to be implying. What with their having access to a figurative time machine and all. I presumably don't need to expound on that; it's probably self-evident.

I do know that the production schedule, both literally for the show and figuratively in terms of the quality of life detriments caused by the apostate system's various agenda items, suggests that it's also most likely 'inverted' or sarcastic. Yet, here in this manifest version of events they still are. And still using capabilities of whatever underwriting, yet not having sorted out things retroactively. A Choice is a Choice; can't have it both ways.

'But what about all the laughs we had?' In the literal sense, I'm not sure that laughs while representing an organization that's still manifestly robbing the People blind internationally, blowing up small countries and plenty more because it's still on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis is sufficient to offset it; particularly when those laughs are merely the publicly-facing front of an occupying force for treason, subversion, usurpation, apostasy, moral corruption, fraud and a whole lot more. As value justification for it all, a few laughs or a song have apparently been all we, collectively, get in return. And in My case even those were belabored with a lot of non-overt organizing symbolism complications at their insistence, plenty more violations of Divinely-conferred rights, and just plain abusive behavior.

In a more figurative sense, the characterization, wit and so on are glimmers of their True Nature showing up even now. And the apostate system-controlled media certainly can scintillate, quite formidably, when it so Chooses. That Choice is manifestly always as inconstant as the [Moon] and typically brought on as part of some organizationally-desired agenda item or campaign. So we have a glimmer of True Nature and Divine Will, a glimmer only, and the rest manifestly deferred by Choice. That amounts to a partial Choice for Divine Will and True Nature, which is not the Choice for it at all. The show has been one of the very best counterfeits of a legitimate state that I've been able to find, but as we've seen what it has presented still represents a Choice unworthy of them.

A few assorted items left over from the ep. The [wedding] crowd [is disrupted by a \[toy\] \[helicopter\]](#) David brought as a 'gift' to the newlyweds. [Toy] would typically represent [children] and thus be a lower-level 'resistance' identifier. A [helicopter], at lower-level franchises at least, tends to be a reference to a counter-Divine Will basis through, er, virtue of its first syllable. The Knights of Malta tend to use it as a 'group identifier' symbol, evidently because of the propeller shape referencing their [Nautical Star] and the positions of the Big Dipper around the Pole Star at the solstices and equinoxes, superimposed. Given the franchise's influence over modern geopolitical history, I'm not entirely certain that makes for much of an improvement. At any rate we've got the whole [wedding] crowd having to drive to avoid it; a 'Just for fun!', 'Just joking!' presentation of a counter-Divine Will basis disrupting what at least in theory is supposed to be a very sacred event. And it seems, though the detail isn't especially clear, to be spr[ing] [wat[er]]. That would make it [air]+[wat[er]] symbolism, or a [k[ame]]-associated supposed ‘inversion’ symbol of the rest of it. A counter-Divine Will basis that is, in truth, unable to assail those who are Divine Will-aligned? That is both metaphysically true in the True State of Creation, and quite manifestly absent here.

The bit about, ‘Everybody into the p[ool]!’ is also interesting. At least when you’re familiar with a [p[ool]] symbolically representing the ‘undergro[und]’ of the supposed ‘resistance’ in its prevalent usage, and particularly indicative of an effort being organized on a non-overt basis. Other than again [wat[er]]+ a [w[edding]] being another [k[ame]]-associated combo I’m not sure what to make of it, beyond the need to stay [dry] when it comes to the non-overt implications of those Choosing a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis which by definition cannot be trusted. Or more likely, that practically everyone made it “into the p[ool]” but some of the characters did not; that would result in a [w[et]]+[dry] “[Cha[nges] mode” declarator.

‘A legitimate reason from an illegitimate basis’

I’ve recently been noticing from more than one group of affiliates with the apostate system, a sort of implied rationalization for strategies like their [Wh[ite Knight]] and [M[arijuana]]. I should add that these implications come from personnel who of course manifestly remain on an inherently non-credible counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis, so readers should remain cognizant of that. The rationale is something to the effect of, ‘This is a vital and important non-overt process that we do in deploying these strategies. It keeps the organization safe from non-overt encroachment and subversion efforts from outsiders predicated on a counter-Divine Will basis.’

An example of this implied messaging comes in the figuratively priceless physical comedy moment of [g[olfing] with Miss DiP[esto]]. [G[olf]] has a prevalent-usage symbolism for the apostate system; it tends to reference a supposed ‘resistance’ effort due to the [g[ame]]’s emphasis on [sil[ence]], ostensibly representing keeping secrets of various non-overt strategies in order to succeed through ste[alth], and due to the [h[anging] down] nature of the cl[ub] symbolically representing professed ‘resistance’ alignment among the lower-lay[er] personnel, and its emphasis on getting things “underground” which is prevalently recognizable as supposedly referencing ‘resistance’ and ‘revolutionary’ efforts even in overt slang. However at the Babylonian Kabbalist ‘lay<sup>r</sup>’ it’s just yet another [g<sup>me</sup>] or ‘effort-in-process’ to get a [b<sup>ll</sup>] representing [the S<sup>n</sup>] [into container] (or ‘under control’, along with it b<sup>ing</sup> yet another instance of their usual [B<sup>l</sup>-Had<sup>d</sup>], [S<sup>n</sup>-in-M<sup>n</sup>] motif.) The cl<sup>b</sup> itself is of course a long, [stra<sup>ght</sup> l<sup>ne</sup>] made of [met<sup>l</sup>], so you get [earth]+[f<sup>re</sup>] representing, peculiarly, a counter-Divine Will basis on an overt venue rather than, as we’d usually infer here, a non-overt one. Which I suppose frees up the non-overt implication zone for presenting all manner of implied campaigns, efforts, strategies and the like, when the Babylonian Kabbalist personnel instead are wise to it all and only sincerely parsing what transpires on an overt basis. The rest appears to be just for effect.

Let’s evaluate the brief t<sup>bleau</sup> presented in that moment. David’s [g<sup>lfing</sup>], Miss DiP<sup>sto</sup> comes into his office just as he’s sw<sup>ng</sup>, the [b<sup>ll</sup>]’s en route to her and she refl<sup>xively</sup> [le<sup>ps</sup>] [up] over it, whereupon it continues its [trav<sup>l</sup>] outside into the main office area and some other employee [b<sup>hind</sup>] her, unaware of it, goes [down] hard. With the organizing symbolism involved, Miss DiP<sup>sto</sup> temporarily represents a [m<sup>sk</sup>] or a franchise due to her position [in fr<sup>nt</sup> of] the other employee. It doesn’t appear to make a lot of sense as-is but when symbolically ‘inverted’, as with the [male]+[f<sup>male</sup>] in the lingo of My “House” you also get the concept that these efforts are useful and necessary strategies for keeping the genuinely less Divine Will-aligned people out there from importuning against an organization through ste<sup>lth</sup> and non-overt tre<sup>chery</sup>.

Mmyes, so great to hear implied how adopting a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis and deploying its strategies offers so many advantages, profiting the interests of an organization which is manifestly thoroughly on an illegitimate basis and by definition has no legitimate interests nor agendas, no legitimately-h<sup>ld</sup> assets, no personnel on a truly valid nor legitimate basis, and so on. And of course about all the l<sup>vly</sup> ‘benefits, perks, considerations’ and so on an organization has managed to achieve and acquire as the result of Choosing a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis which has thoroughly de-legitimatized it. Fascinating stuff. And of course if successful, it would presumably completely prevent all or practically all competition against the interests of the organization, leaving it effectively as the only, totalitarian, internationally-sp<sup>nn</sup>ing organization out there, getting into and controlling everything in society, and all while remaining on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. I'll leave it to readers to assess for themselves just how much of a public boon that is for them.

Then there's the matter of an apparent prevalent preoccupation by apostate system-aligned personnel, which is practically the majority of the public anymore, with implementing their preference from among a plethora of various counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature schemes and formulas, overt and non-, at the expense of de-prioritizing actually upholding Divine Will and True Nature, and of course from their focusing on, growing and maintaining legitimate, sincere relationships, civics, business interests, trade skills and the like. For every effort into which we invest ourselves, it comes at the expense of investing ourselves into some other thing. And when practically everybody's investing themselves into a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature-oriented effort of one sort or another, alignment with Divine Will and True Nature goes missing and society manifestly continues on its consistently [down]ward trajectory. Another major public boon, presumably.

I have a mild suspicion that we wouldn't find ourselves encountering quite so many of these various investments of effort, attention and resources into counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature strategies and a plethora of rationalizations for them all if the apostate system were speaking from a legitimate basis of Choosing Divine Will and True Nature alignment. Meaning that even arguing for what's known and symbolically declared to be a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis represents itself yet more illegitimate and improper misallocation of time, effort, manpower, attention and resources into something that's already known to be illegitimate, at the expense of actually upholding Divine Will and True Nature. So manifestly, 'more of the same' and 'business as usual' for them.

A Divine Will principles and True Nature loss-making enterprise which is manifestly detriming us all.

Routine and systematized everyday idolatry from a totalitarian organization manifestly on an illegitimate counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis which is distracting people away from the things in [life] of authentic [integrity] and genuine value.

- [August twentieth, 2023]

All media references presented exclusively as evidence, with the exception of the title cited from 'C's' which is exclusively for overt clarity via metaphor.

Redistribute freely, keeping the text as-is.

Social media:

Facebook

Twitter

Discord (for leaving messages and chatting about these topics)

My exposure sites:

Divine Will Assembly

Lexicon