

I thought it would be responsible to attend to the current geopolitics and some other matters that have presented themselves already this week, before the new media to analyze comes in.

“Centrifugal force”

More apparent strategic dissonance with an [Isis]-aligned romantic interest whom, and whose content, I'll leave unspecified here. The gist: They're aware they're manifestly in the figurative doghouse with Me, and appear to have been attempting to use it as an opportunity to figuratively 'bind My ear' regarding policy on how to address that. I'm not familiar with the rather curious reasoning by which someone currently 'on the outs' with Me would somehow convert into giving them input into policy determination, so that idea's certainly novel and interesting. But as it seems [Isis] has put them up to it, and as it's less than clear for many, I should probably attend to that here.

The traditional [Asian] concept of displaying supposed contrition through the practice of giving [fingerboxes] I find abhorrent in the extreme. Disfigurement is morbid and grotesque and besides, we don't have nearly enough storage area for them all in the barns over here. Thought I should get that on record before they overwhelm the local delivery services, and I'm not even sure how that'd work in regard to those who aren't even living in the same era. More seriously, if I'm 'into someone' about the last thing I'd want to encounter is an aberrant Choice from them which is subsequently compounded by their own bodily disfigurement as a supposed restitution.

I also encountered the same personnel apparently attempting to 'sell Me' on the apostate system's prevalent 'Western' equivalent, that of responding by having personnel non-overtly 'speak' in 'modes' which add on increasing amounts of supposed 'inversion'. I'm less than clear on precisely what adding more mental gyrations and arithmetic does to improve the situation, nor the nature of the Choices involved.

What both of these proffered concepts seem to have in common is their apparent irrelevancy in that department. Some needlessly complicated Rube Goldberg response which professes to illustrate contrition while not actually addressing, correcting and resolving the counter-Divine Will basis which caused the misprioritization, nor even providing restitution to make the one injured by their Choices whole again. The basis of the one who committed the wrong remains just the same: counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature. What can be trusted from such a basis? Not a thing.

It's true, Christianity has tended to show God penitence through 'sweat and ashes'. The symbol is meaningless except as an illustration of the genuine, substantive repentance which is actually in their heart. Without that verifiably present it's merely a hollow and empty gesture. Common Law juries seek reparation, but this doesn't appear to get at the nub of the matter here because Common Law societies naturally assume that other than the specific incident people are generally operating on a legitimate basis; it doesn't presume a society comprised of 'outlaws'. Nor indeed should it have to.

My own "House" addresses the manifest situation in a couple of ways, under the 'duress' of the situation in which [Isis] et. al haven't retroactively prevented the problem of course. A mild version of the practice of 'shunning' is part of it, lapsing at a literal later date which is dependent on the assessment of the 'shunner' and which is usually influenced by the illustration of the 'shunnee' through their behavior that they're Choosing a more sound, Divine Will and True Nature-aligned basis. That's part of what's implied by the [time] symbol to indicate penalty. The other is that 'invalid' and 'non-symbol symbols' tend to 'stick up' with the number of offenses as an admission of them by the manifest offender. We tend to 'have long memories', and we've quite intentionally made no provision for offenses against Divine Will and True Nature knowingly, willfully and avoidably beyond interpersonal reparations. Someone who puts themselves by Choice onto a more [peripheral] [orbit] of the [target] puts themselves at a disadvantage in terms of organizationally-perceived value, and thus also in terms of 'advancing' within the organization relative to the other personnel. Hence the symbolic concept of [time] being 'one-directional' as the average person experiences it, and the idea of 'non-symbolism symbols' referencing those on an informal or invalid basis and, perhaps, also alluding to what's going on with those on [dark orbits] who have by their own Choice disqualified or 'de-legitimized' themselves to some extent. Interestingly, the apostate system appears to have manifestly placed itself in a position in which eventual, presumably inevitable, Choices on the part of individuals for 'repentance' seem likely to be [unrecognizable] with regard to their sincerity and authenticity. Offers made on such a basis obviously can't be accepted, so we'll presumably have to see what can be done to resolve that situation. It's not looking great from here.

The apostate system's model professes that 'demerits' can merely be 'paid away', not entirely unlike the 'Indulgences' of Roman Catholicism. By contrast, Scripturally it's presented that counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature offenses must be 'paid in blood' meaning that they're capital offenses. Each of them is, individually. The results of the disparity between these two systems can be seen when the apostate system's model has people Choosing a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis quite routinely and indeed casually as a lifestyle practice. I can't interpret that as a sound policy, and the results of it throughout the headlines and even just out in society definitely speak for themselves as a 'disproof of concept'. I'm sure I don't need to go on about it. The caveat about 'paid in blood' is that with the Christ model the offer for absolution is already there, provided by a Superior Authority in alignment with Divine Will, but the Choice to accept it necessarily involves accepting the Divine Will and True Nature-aligned basis from which it is presented. Essentially the formula is that a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis eventually 'bankrupts' itself and recognizes the need to divest of that position sincerely. With [Isis] and the apostate system however, we appear to have 'a catch' there; the organization's 'bankrupt' and 'in default', the individual people comprising it can be 'saved' if they so Choose but where's the certainty that the Choice would be sincere and they wouldn't merely be up to their manifestly usual antics in a new organizational scheme? While the capabilities for retroactive correction exist yet have been used for seemingly everything besides correction onto a legitimate basis, and while the nature of what precisely is underwriting those capabilities remains unconfirmed, the nature of the Choice appears consistent throughout and rather self-evident at that.

They're 'bankrupt', 'in default', and per the nature and structure of Creation quite unable to pay it off from the limited, illegitimate scope afforded to them by a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis.

Meanwhile it appears with the [Is■s]-aligned individual in qu■stion here, [Is■s] manifestly put him up to his presentation of 'agenda items' in an effort to attempt to 'b■nd My ear' about them, and that'd be [rot■tion] in the sense that My "House" uses it: an attempt to act against someone at or near the [cent■r] by someone out on the [periph■ry], which affects the latter of those vastly more than the former. The result is of course represented by [centrifugal force], throwing them by their own actions even further out on the [periph■ry]. It's regrettable both personally and professionally, as he's demonstrated that he's much smarter than that, and I'm disappointed in both contexts to find him manifestly dist■ncing himself even more from the [cent■r]. We symbolically tend to reference this category of situation via [sl■pst■ck com■dy]; that is, our equivalent of what the apostate system usually means when it refers to a symbolic [de■th] as [self-infl■cted]. Overtly, I find the situation about the furthest thing from com■dic.

'Israel', so-called

Now to attend to some of the geopolitics, both overt and non-

Before getting into the main topic, I think I should reference something that manifestly happened last month about which I'd not heard. Here in the literal United States the apostate system's (p)Resident Biden publicly announced that he's opened a new federal office to routinely and systematically deploy taxpayers' money to promote treason against the limits imposed upon his office by the Constitution, and to violate the Divinely-conferred rights of the People.

There are few things more judicially expedient than having someone publicly admit their guilt in what the law deems 'a conspiracy to commit treason'.

The office of the President of course has no more than those authorities legitimately delegated to it by the People via the Constitution, additional limits explicitly imposed via the first ten Amendments, and of course lacks the ability to do lawfully what'd encroach against the Divinely-conferred rights of anyone in any event. And I've yet to find any delegated authority for using tax monies to promote a social policy of normalizing armament ownership monopolies by agents of the state; it's distinctly antithetical to our Common Law system.

The announcement took place on the [\[twenty-second\]](#), in the White House [\[rose\]](#) garden.

I present this not only as evidence of the routine depravity and Lawlessness to which the apostate system manifestly stands, but also because it symbolically appears to corroborate what the apostate system has 'Israel', so-called, doing now. We can reasonably surmise that what's going on now, had been planned and organized then. The apostate system's 'Zio' franchise tends to routinely deploy the formula of proclaiming itself the victim rather than the aggressor that it systematically is so much that the franchise has non-overtly become associated with that motif; it's like a means of referencing them. Between that, the 'Master Number' [twenty-two] which usually indicates 'confirmation of an until-now possible agenda item or plan’, and the [penetration] involved in [rise], we have what’d ordinarily present as some rather interesting symbolism, and as rather loud telegraphic of the support of the usurped government apparatus for supposed ‘Israel’. Which is exactly what’s been illustrated since.

All is likely not as it seems, given that the apostate system’s not only in supposed “[Chaos] mode” but also that officeholders typically deploy a supposed ‘inverted’ mode of symbolism, but whatever else transpires later on it’s plain that what’s already happening is scorn-worthy enough regardless of what if anything appears later to supposedly ‘justify it’.

Biden [untruthfully] claimed at the announcement that he’s ‘been to every mass shooting’. Such a blatant [untruth] could be non-overtly relevant, perhaps. Cold comfort to the victims resulting from the schemes, both foreign and domestic.

As for the supposed Hamas attack on ‘Israel’, much has been made in the media ever since about the supposed “intelligence failure” of the latter in anticipating it. Non-overtly this was a standard-usage term I’d been encountering quite a bit through the years, and only upon having gained familiarity with the Babylonian Kabbalist parent group and its usage of [kitsune] symbolism for that specific ‘contingency’ had the apparent non-overt implication there become apparent to Me: that supposedly, the ‘intelligence’ capabilities of [Iss] had succeeded in detecting some wrongdoing on My part, [kitsune] being associated with the concept of “spies” and “espionage” as an extension of the [trickery] concept which is so frequently used to deploy it. So the professed translation would ordinarily be essentially, ‘Ah! We caught him at something!’ When of course they hadn’t, to the best of My knowledge, but had reported back to the organization either [untruthfully] or erroneously about it. Curious, that. Of course I’d been unable to parse at their ‘layr’ precisely due to the fact that they’d adopted so many ‘layrs’ of non-overt obfuscation and treachery, and had been under perceived ‘duress’ for My literal life preventing, I had thought, open presenting of the truth. The organization had manifestly usurped the agency in so many areas, leaving Me to figuratively ‘eat the losses’, [time] and again. I am delighted to find that this no longer remains the situation, at least with regard to openly presenting the truth, which leaves it unable to account for the discrepancies.

Which is cold comfort to the literal casualties resulting from its various agenda items though, as here. At a casual estimate though, not only does its current “[Chaos] mode” cause this particular instance to ring particularly hollow and intentionally so, the overt version of events seems intended to do much the same thing there. Consider: A massively unconscionable situation resulting from something which just doesn’t figuratively ‘add up’; the supposed Hamas attack is already widely-described throughout the geopolitics and media as ‘Israel’s nine-even’. With about as suspect a basis, and just as with the original event, quite deliberately so on the part of the apostate system. Purpose-built to be exposed as a major public fraud later, it looks from here. An intentional public farce with a monumental literal body count. Typically when the apostate system does something like that, they’re building up reserve levels of public outrage to conveniently direct in a preferred direction at a later date in order to accomplish some agenda item. Such as when for example ‘the Patriot White Hats in the military’ present themselves ‘to soundly vanquish the nifferous cabal of Deep State operatives who’ve taken over the country!’ or whatever narrative they have planned for such an occasion. Presumably a great reminder never to ask the organization to get you a gift for a special occasion, unless you’d like to have that sort of thing on your conscience.

As of this writing, today’s news cycle is on about the horrendous siege ‘Israel’ is inflicting upon Gaza and how the latter’s ‘last remaining power generator’ is out of fuel, resulting in the latest instance of the [blackout] and [power outage] symbolic trope which has come to be associated with a supposed ‘failure’ or ‘lapse’ on My part as part of the [katsune] ‘contingency’ scheme. Except again, all under the auspices of “[Chaos] mode” this time. It’s as though the apostate system is figuratively ‘remixing’ their usual routine into a deliberate self-parody, although disappointingly with casualty statistics and horror stories rather than laughs. Which rather suggests that this is still ‘business as usual’ for them: figuratively putting lumps of counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature shlock into shape, into what appear to be new configurations and new meanings but which nevertheless remain substantively just the same as they’ve always been.

Apparently as part of the whole thing, we’ve seemingly got practically everyone in media and international geopolitics screaming that, “Iran did it!” and clamoring for escalation. [\[cite\]](#), [\[cite\]](#). [Iran] of course is symbolically the [katsune], that is, Myself, via the [twinn] symbol. And for everyone else but Me, would add an ‘inversion’ symbol in recognition that they’re not Me. We’ve got the aptly-named 'Drudge Report' claiming matter-of-factly that [Ir■n]'s 'Khamenei thre■tens 'greater dis■ster' for Israel...'; when in fact what he was on about appears to be merely an assessment of the geopolitics involved and a disclaimer that Ir■n wasn't. But on that last, get a load of the included quotes from Wh■te House National Sec■rity Council sp■kesman John K■rby about how they've not found any evidence that [Ir■n]'s involved, but gosh and golly they're going to keep actively looking for some no matter how long it takes. Overtly at least, it must s■mplify matters when you've already decided on who your intended culprit is. If he'd declared the same thing regarding, I dunno, the Netherlands he would've caught some rather quizzical looks indeed.

What else. We've got an official in 'Israel's Knesset literally screaming, 'N■ke 'em!' I'm paraphrasing there, but as you can see not by much. In fact her actual w■rding and imagery regarding a 'd■ms■ly sc■nario' is almost as po■tic as it is clinically sociop■thic. Worth a read if you're in the m■dd for something 'g■th-ind■strial' I guess.

Just as antic■pated, we've got 'Israel' 'retaliating' into Lebanon. Which is curious, or in a sense not, given that we've long known that 'Israel' has been t■nneling into neighboring countries for years for the express purpose of equipping itself to la■nch 'att■cks' at itself from neighboring countries in order to publicly rationalize such 'retaliations'. Just do a find-in-p■ge here for 'tunn■ls', without the redaction.

Mildly uncouth image advisory, because looky what we've got here. 'Live n■de Babylonian Kabbalists!' Alright, not precisely [live] I guess. [De■d] n■de Babylonians? At any rate, this appears to be organizing symbolism for the appropriately [tw■-f■ced] idol Jan■s. You know, the idol after which they'd n■med the first m■nth of the year. Seems to indicate they plan to take a pratfall on the whole thing come J■nuary, while abandoning "[Cha■s] mode". Even when the [integrity] of the entire organization is figuratively [falling] around about their ears, scheduling is apparently the priority. What a 'coincidence' that their apparent plan to do better comes just at the start of a year.

Convenience itself, no?
