

Disclaimer: I again find I have what I perceive as a Duty per Divine Will to present certain evidence and it's likely to look rather 'fknky' that I present it, both personally and professionally. I'm quite aware of that, and so I'm openly and clearly prefacing this with a blatant disclaimer that I'm presenting all of this exclusively for the purposes of evidence. In particular, My personal interests are well-advised not to read too much symbolically into this stuff. It's not all media evidence this time either.

And I should add that this piece was somewhat delayed as the result of various quite ordinary seasonal outages. Ordinary for My current location that is, My having had to withdraw from most of society as the only available 'best option' and direct result of all the [fxb] manifestly Chosen by the manifestly-previous apostate system and particularly 'its' [l] contingent. It brings Me no great joy that this was manifestly the 'best option' I'd had as the result of their Choices to violate Divinely-conferred rights at a whim, something they're manifestly still doing, but this does alleviate much of it somewhat.

A day and a few hours after My last, the Ecuadorean government 'declared war' on the organized crime syndicates and this was hyped across the international news. Audio example, archived for evidence purposes and revved up to about the rate I listen through the news because they tend to make rather free with listeners' time. This sudden 'war' involved plenty of [c] [b]s, and what evidently otherwise would've resulted in the [blowing up] of an entire [television station] while they were on the [air]. Given that I'd already quashed that whole non-overt [absurdity], there's a rather interesting moment in the audio excerpt where the anchor deftly recontextualizes a part of the pre-recording by presenting it as, 'how close these events came to having a very different ending.' I respectfully disagree there, but the recontextualization certainly remains interesting.

Also interesting is the open public admission of how many of Ecuador's overt government officials themselves openly admit to affiliation with the organized crime syndicates. We already knew of course that the organized crime personnel tend to inter- and co-mingle throughout the rest of the manifest system, but what's interesting here is that common sense dictates if a government actually wants to shut down organized crime for once, it doesn't do so by 'having a war' on it. It only does that if it's all just a pretext, usually either to perpetrate a narrative as here, or to use the campaign as a means to rationalize a government ostensibly giving itself more authorities and clout. Common sense instead informs us that governments genuinely wanting to 'shut down' organized crime would start by abolishing its means of supply and funding by legalizing things like gambling and especially recreational substances. But we don't see that, we see 'an impassioned clash between supposed opposites', each well-funded and until very recently manifestly funded and supported by and as the apostate system. Kahoots of course, and figuratively 'a ratings loser'. I was mildly surprised the item manifestly continued to even be in the news cycles in subsequent days but then, that's typical of the sort of 'nothingburgers' a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis routinely serves up.

'Too personal'

Next, some quirky non-overt interoperations between someone I know and the content of the news cycles. Someone I've been attempting to mentor in Divine Will principles etc. had started throwing a non-overt pattern of, 'There's something wrong here and hindering our relationship.' That much I'd already manifestly known of course, and having assumed it was on their part I'd attempted to get it sorted as a personal clarification in My last. The pattern continued though, and we got this in the news cycles. [Emergency] on an "Alaskan Airlines" flight ([plane] would be a [katsune] derivative symbol as would [twin] via [alliteration]), and we've got a [corporation] named as a counter-Divine Will declaratory symbol), a [window] [shatters] in the passenger area, [door] flies off leaving a [hole] in the [plane], a [child]'s [shirt] is reportedly 'sucked off him and out' (read: blown out, as equalization moves from areas of high pressure to low) and the [plane] is compelled to make an [emergency] [landing].

The [child]'s [shirt] is interesting, or at least would be if they were on a legitimate and credible basis. I'm mentoring a presumed [minor]; that would be symbolically depicted as a child. The apparently-intended translation at least for Me then would appear to amount to something like, 'We're abandoning our effort to get things sorted, because due to your association with the [minor] there we're deeming you to be on a counter-Divine Will basis and that's de-legitimizing.'

Yet, and this is the kicker, the very same organizing symbolism would manifestly-ordinarily have the [child] equate to [Horns] and therefore supposedly Myself, and the [window] and [hole] would represent ‘a counter-Divine Will-predicated illusion for public effect’, and the rank and file personnel would parse it as, ‘We’re organizing an effort to appear as though there were some de-legitimizing problem going on, but we’re still actually continuing to sort things as normal’. Or perhaps, ‘All the counter-Divine Will stuff is the untrue appearance, and we’re getting things sorted.’ Or for that matter, ‘We’re getting things sorted is the untrue appearance, all predicated from the counter-Divine Will basis we’ve manifestly always been on but can’t yet get away with openly admitting to most of the rank and file personnel.’ Context is so important when parsing, and of course while they’re manifestly on an [absurd] counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis it’s all essentially arbitrary and frivolous. Definitely ‘void for vagueness’ coming from a basis which lacks trust and ultimate credibility.

My personal reaction wasn’t much. ‘What a manifestly-typical flustercluck,’ I thought to Myself. I had another look at the content the fellow I’ve been mentoring had put out and sure enough, it had apparently been designed to be ‘readable either way’ as a sincere investment of effort on his part, or as a notification of ‘this is what they’re doing, incidentally.’ That lack of clarity generally illustrates a sort of back-passing, ‘holding ones bits’ and is colloquially referred to as ‘weak sauce’ unworthy of someone to do. But then so is manifestly continuing to Choose a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis and it’s that to which I’d immediately and correctly ascribed the ‘problem’. This was later non-overtly admitted, long after I’d already known it.

We also got what appear to be a few other items in the news cycles corroborating the effort. This for example. A Breakfast [woman] was staying at a hotel in London when she orders a [drink] she reads as costing about twenty-four dollars. It comes out to her made with fine Crystal, has [gold]-leaf [flicks] in it, they have her sign this big impressive book and everything, and then she finds out it actually cost about twenty-four hundred dollars. Her husband walks off in disgust, leaving her to sort it out. Reliable I suppose. [Gold] of course is symbolically a [metall] associated with and representing [the Sun], which’d put it in there with all the [Mithraic] and so on symbolism they’d manifestly been using to represent Myself. It would or could then easily come out as organizing an effort to get Me to accept the idea that there’d been a lapse in My integrity, with the [fl[]cks] a sort of [part[]culate] symbol deriving from [d[]st]. The effort wouldn't be credible for even a moment of course, and since we're on the concept I should give readers something I'd found in researching the Biblical story of Lot's [w[]fe]. We're all told that she looked back as they were fleeing Sodom, and was instantly transmuted 'into a pillar of salt'. And we're apparently meant to think, 'Z[]t! That God, man. Such a harsh taskmaster. One wrong move and you're instantly vaporized!' Getting more into the actual wording used, she 'looked back' in a figurative sense and later yearned for the lifestyle she'd encountered in Sodom (which also had little to nothing to do with our modern ideas about it; it was all manner of temple wh[]res to idol cults and attempting to mass-j[]mp foreigners and even angels, along with a few other things (content advisory) that seemed to be the problem there), and as a result of that yearning for a morally unconscionable lifestyle 'became as dust'. That appears to be in the sense that manifestly-Babylonian symbolic lingo would mean it, as in 'to lose ones' integrity and lapse through moral failings'. The Bibles full of this now-obscure, lesser-known stuff. Or rather, modern ideas about it have manifestly gotten severely miseducated in the interim.

I'll do another 'frinstance', and it's in keeping with the main topic I'll address in this piece. The media cycles were also majorly hyping this. For decades, loads of post office employees had been adding up their accounts and frequently coming up short. To avoid penalties they'd made up the difference out of their own pockets, resulting in cumulatively major losses, plenty of stress, home lives strained enough to put their marriages through the wringer, and then one day it's found out that this was all a routine occurrence resulting from a computer software glitch. Huge national uproar, the Prime Minister addresses the nation and tells everyone those people will be acquitted and compensated and so on. [Technology], a counter-Divine Will basis symbol and frequently referencing either a strategy or counter-Divine Will-predicated literal motto. And [mail] and [post offices] are a common-usage symbol for a counter-Divine Will basis or effort, 'in container'. Incidentally there are some overt concerns about setting a precedent for undoing court verdicts through legislative decrees which gets a bit interesting, as does the non-overt equivalent regarding how it'd appear to attempt to establish a precedent for accepting 'gifts, benefits, considerations etc.' from those still manifestly Choosing a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis when of course those aren't genuinely 'benefits' etc. under those terms, but rather just the Choice with more of the same and an attempted bribe added. But again we encounter the implied concept of 'a debt which appeared but without any sincere or legitimate cause'. A figurative aberrant 'blip on the radar.'

As for this personal interest I've been attempting to mentor, I've been relegated under the manifest circumstances to provisionally categorize them as a [minor]. That is, someone who doesn't yet have the understanding and familiarity with Divine Will principles and so on to be able yet to make the Choice to consistently and reliably uphold a Divine Will and True Nature-aligned and -affirming basis. And I've been finding Myself increasingly unable to plausibly justify that assessment. With Divine Will principles once someone 'gets' it to a certain extent they can no longer feasibly claim what amounts to 'ignorance', or in this situation a manifest apostate system which has been keeping these principles back from the brunt of humanity as 'proprietary information' and honoring them more in the breach than the observance, and they actually do have to make a Choice for Divine Will principles and True Nature or they 'hate the will' just as formerly-manifest [Isis] has, liable for the results of their Choice not to. This is due to the fact that 'There is no sufficient justification for Choosing to reject Divine Will principles knowingly, willfully and avoidably.' It's not easy to read My pieces here and come away without an understanding of just how vital and necessary it is to make that Choice, particularly given all the results we've been encountering and indeed subsisting through on the daily when people do not. So I confess, I'm at a loss to see just what part of that they're not 'getting', if any. It would seem there's some part of this I haven't been teaching successfully, or something they've 'missed', or that they're just Choosing a Lawless, illegitimate basis knowingly, willfully and avoidably. And per Duty I'd likely be remiss if I didn't address that, clearly and directly, just as I've done right here.

'Debased'

Ready for something more fun and interesting? I've been contemplating the recent manifest hijinks as described, particularly the bogus 'Let's try to incite Him to participate in a fraudulent non-overt takeover attempt and deploy underhanded methods and means', and in considering how completely hokey the whole investment in effort looked I free-associated to this which I'm presenting exclusively as evidence as with everything else in this piece. And what evidence it is, too. It's only about one of the biggest internet sensations ever, from about twenty or so years back.

I should explain the major organizing symbolism involved. Let's start with the fact that it derived from a laughably hideous translation of a [Japan]ese [game]. The game's title? [\[Zoro\] \[Wing\]](#). Right there we get something which'd parse out as 'a counter-Divine Will-predicated illusion', 'promote this cause or effort', and [twinn] which'd come out both as a [katsune]-derivative symbol and as [\[Gemini\]](#) which'd suggest 'a counterfeit of an existing legitimate ideology, concept, system, etc.' And between [Japan] and [space] we'd get the 'contingency' scheme pattern. Even the godawful translation would have common-usage symbolic meaning: errors of grammar and spelling are known, prevalent symbols referring to something which is done illegitimately, improperly, fraudulently, underhandedly and so on. And the costume depicted from the game emphasizes [\[explosion\]](#) and a [\[cut\]](#). We get a [one-eyed] symbolic reference apparently to the [Isis]-[Horus]-[Osiris] trptych, designating to what it pertains, and we get plenty of [technology]. Later we also get, "[Move] [Zig]", the first an 'effort in process' [travel] symbol and a [katsune]-associated symbol, and the second among other things a [zigzag line] reference associated with [lightning], [Zeus], and for reasons I'll avoid getting into here non-overt connotations of dubious, 'less than aboveboard' behavior and Choices.

The piece then continues with a montage (and associated content advisory from Myself) of various user-edited images, which cumulatively present the effect of making it seem as though there's been an illegitimate takeover out there in the real world, complete with spurious grammar and all that it symbolically implies. In context, we now have the familiarity with the situation to get what this is manifestly on about: An illegitimate [Zeus]-[Osiris], then-potentially displaced by a [Horus] who's on a legitimate, Divine Will- and True Nature-aligned basis, and from My own manifest experience plenty of efforts similar to the recent non-overt investments in the 'bogus takeover attempt', ostensibly to see whether I'd Choose illegitimate means and methods which'd, so the story goes at least, cause the organization to withdraw its confidence in and its support for My Cause. And we see that rather concerning [zero] symbol etc., with its connotations of 'this is the illusion we're striving to promote here, but it's just a counterfeit'. And of course there's the [explosion], described as one planted by another on a counter-Divine Will basis. Indeed, for those manifestly self-identifying as Babylonian Kabbalist personnel the idea of [Set] as the personification representing a counter-Divine Will basis would be immediately apparent, so we have to take a long, hard look at the symbolic implications of "a [set]up" there.

The thing figuratively hit the internet like a ton of bricks. For years everyone was on about it, with plenty of derivative memes, references and remixes. This was major non-overt organizing symbolism for them, and the rank and file personnel dutifully made sure it was all but unavoidable in order to get the messaging out. But it gets even more interesting, because shortly thereafter as part of the trend of derivative memes and Flash media we got, 'All Your Smurf'. This appears to have provided either supplementary non-overt organizing symbolism or a counter-response from especially counter-Divine Will-predicated personnel and inner factions. As it had built off the original Flash item, the non-overt context had already been established and now we got increasing non-overt specificity and detail about it.

To parse it as intended, we'll have to evaluate it as someone manifestly self-identifying as a Babylonian Kabbalist would, so let's attempt to do that here. We open with just scads of [fire] [triangle] geometry, repeating, and plenty more [zeroes] in the name of the show they're parodying. In keeping with it, they're trying to convey an idea to Papa Smurf and failing due to the 'language gap', which by our time has manifestly become a symbolic [language] [gap]. In frustration one of the players does a [downward percussion] with his fist, a symbolic derivative of [lightning] associated with [Zeus] and with a counter-Divine Will basis, causing the [pen] to do an [up]+[down] and lodge into something, perhaps the desk, perhaps his [cybernetic] [hand], giving us a [penetration], and stand upright like an [obelisk]. This would have everything to do with the 'let's see what results here' 'teach [Hor]s Divine Will principles and see if He adopts and upholds them' routine. The [yell]w of [the S]n of the [penc]l and the counter-Divine Will symbol of the [graph]te within isn't exactly reassuring though. And what's the whole Smurf thing about? Longtime readers will remember that the Smurfs are a pop culture reference to [the S]n via [\[the Phrygian cap\]](#), made by [M]thra [out of some of the \[b\]ll he'd slain](#). [The S]n replaces the [b]ll, [Hor]s replaces [Osir]s, it's effectively the same thing as far as the organizing symbolism is concerned.

The 'language difficulties' result in needing a ruling by the judges. In context, does this sound a bit like the Enned to you? In the modernized retelling, the coterie of supposed gods has been replaced by a crew of decidedly non-major [act]rs and [perf]rmers. Under the supposed [k]tsune 'contingency' of course, [perf]rmance would ostensibly 'invert' to [spir]t, or 'what's actually going on', 'true alignment with Divine Will', and 'the truth of the matter, despite appearances'. Of course the item is all presented on a counter-Divine Will basis, so 'all bets are off' there. The first [perf]rmer is 'Balki' from 'Perfect Strangers', and whose character last name also starts with the second letter of the alphabet, thus giving us not only [k]tsune-[tw]n via [alliteration] but specifically the [Is]s-associated version of it, having to do with the [hon]y-producing [ins]cts. The next is 'Charo', more famous as being 'the chic-chic girl'. She's a little before My time, but it'd be another [k]tsune-[tw]n-[alliteration] thing and per her sng, just a reference for sxx. Likely only big in her era because the media were still refining their overt mass-appeal formula, but still the colloquial connotations of 'sxx' in the context of 'getting [bleep!]ed over' are a bit of a concern here, particularly as trust is lacking on a counter-Divine Will basis. Here she's depicted with her [d]g 'Chichillo' meaning 'knife' from which the 'chic-chic' was named, and it's [w]nking giving us that [one-ey]d thme I'd already recounted, and which we also find presented on the rather gruesome [\[b\]he\[ding\]](#) elsewhere in the item. In all we're starting to get quite a lot of supposedly 'resistance', or at least 'resistance'-readable, symbolism and imagery here but this would be quite in keeping with formerly-manifest [Is]s' rle and purpose. Next we've got Jesuit-trained comedy [act]r 'Roberto Benigni', who's pretty much completely before My time so I'm unfamiliar with him. His 'thing' appears to be that he was known for his [fac]s, is most known for doing a piece about finding lghthrtedness in even the worst situations, and that he was only the second actr to win an Academy Award in a [foreign]-[spe]king flm.

In fact the thing they've all got in common is that they're [foreign]. 'Balki's' whole schtick was that he was an awkward foreigner. 'Charo' did her cutesy, sexy thing but was unusual in that she made no secret of her thick Spanish accent and origins. And I've just presented the major, foreign thing about Mr. Benigni. Interestingly, [S]t was also associated with foreigners. Then we've got the figurative 'language gap' we'd encountered when I'd been unfamiliar with the 'layers' upon 'layers' of non-overt organizing symbolism the organization had manifestly contrived, so it's a little less than clear which they'd meant here. At any rate while they were ostensibly mentoring and evaluating Me and I was figuratively flailing around trying to understand what'd been going on, they'd apparently manifestly had their 'judges' present not just one knowing, willful and avoidable 'misruling' about Me and broadcast it throughout the organization, but an entire sequence of them. And they must have known better, continually prying into My mind as they are. So we'd appear to manifestly have a consistent pattern of knowing, willful and avoidable direct rejection and defiance of Divine Will by formerly-manifest [Is], for reason of her being predicated on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis. And then attempting to justify it with the rhetoric of, 'I was unable to recognize Your Choice for Divine Will and True Nature.'

"A [computer] [glitch]."

Mmm-hmm.

The apparent non-overt organizing content of 'All Your Base' seems to be to overly emphasize, as per usual, the supposed value of the organization despite its manifest counter-Divine Will basis and activities and to imply that 'We don't know this guy. He could just be out to take what he can get here, through methods however improper. Obviously we're not going to let that succeed, but let's try to convince Him that He has, that we're all converting to this, that or the other group affiliation through underhanded means. If He's in fact approaching things legitimately, we'll make sure to let you the rank and file personnel know. Until then, you can just assume He's awful and less than aboveboard.' Of course as we know they manifestly did not do that, and instead used the tactic as a means to rationalize rejecting legitimate Divine Will-aligned and -derived Authority to put things right because they were on a counter-Divine Will basis just as they manifestly still are. But what a successful, personnel confidence-instilling ploy on their part, to rationalize continuing to Choose a counter-Divine Will basis throughout. With 'All Your Smurf' we see this concept embellished upon, apparently capitalizing on the 'language gap' between Myself and their more critical non-overt 'layers', itself the result of the manifest-former apostate system's routine and compounding Choices to misrepresent their nature and position to the public and the rank and file personnel to achieve perceived strategic advantages.

And it 'worked' for decades, until My openness and honesty, and the increasing urgency of the situation compelling Me to abandon concerns of 'duress' for My own literal life, caused Me to start putting out these pieces. Then the routine could no longer be justified, due to the obvious public disparity between what the situation manifestly is and their own non-overtly broadcast version of it. So we all started to get the non-overt equivalent of a 'bureaucratic rharmand', while they supposedly 'made sure' of My basis, for years, and then spent years more still refusing to Choose a legitimate Divine Will and True Nature-aligned basis, at least implying all the while that this was all 'necessary in order to secure the situation for Your transition into office'. For an adduct, any excuse or rationalization will suffice just so long as it's effective when deployed against others.

Of course it means they're manifestly up against Divine Will principles directly, and blatantly so. As in, 'There's no sufficient rationalization nor justification for Choosing a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis knowingly, willfully and avoidably.' Yet these manifestly errant people, individually and collectively, have been continuing to invest in such rationalizations for Lawlessness. Even some I regard as particularly close to Me, as I'd presented in the preceding section 'Too Personal'. The effort to be, apparently, to imply that, 'Ah! This is the reason we're continuing to remain on a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis! It's because per egalitarianism what's fair for You to do is fair for us to do too, and something You've Chosen with regard to that [minor] you're mentoring has established just such a prophyle, one we can rather deftly exploit!' Excuses, excuses. Adduct talk. It would certainly provide a seemingly-meaningful context for that "[durr] blown off" symbol on the Alaskan Airlines flight. In manifestly-former Babylonian Kabbalist, a [durr], a [gate], a [why forward], a means by which to [travel] to a state which is even more of a Choice to compound their rejection of True Nature, as in a [mask], than they're already manifestly Choosing.

A professed viable method for manifestly continuing to do so. There is none, and I'm aware of no loophole there to exploit either. But what's more, it's consistent with neither Divine Will nor with their own True Nature to even want to seek one out. So it'd certainly be de-legitimizing, just not to Myself. And their own manifest position and basis is already thoroughly de-legitimized.

But it's that 'effective when deployed against others' I'd mentioned which seems to manifestly be the thing here. An [absurd] rejection of Divine Will and True Nature, but for all its [absurdity] who's going to actually stop them at it? If they're going to manifestly adopt merely the latest in a series of baseless rationalizations for hypocrisy, and the self-identifying rank and file personnel, also [absurdly], continue to Choose it, that's the position of [force]: ramming through clout by force while [disintegrating] legitimacy and using them up, for as long as they continue to remain feasible. It's sort of like the overt situation in which one has gone through the court process, gotten a legitimate ruling for damage rewards for example, but then has no means of force to ensure compliance with that ruling. The losing defendant then typically tends to 'stonewall', refusing to pay because nothing actually compels them to. It's an illegitimate position whose liabilities merely continue to compound, often into self-evident contempt and criminality, but there you are.

Feasible indefinitely? Of course not. Particularly with the organizing lingo openly and publicly exposed and spreading. It's not a tenable position for these people, of whatever illegitimate group or subdivision with which they manifestly Choose to self-identify, to maintain. In fact it manifestly places them in precisely the same position they'd appear to have publicly if non-overtly attempted to ascribe to Myself for decades, though I'd been unfamiliar with it: to illegitimately retain clout, influence, resources, personnel etc. via underhanded methods and despite any claim to it, just as we've been seeing with the 'All Your' organizing symbolism. Life's occasionally pretty neat like that sometimes. That's why it was so important to present that evidence here at this juncture.

Not that they have any sincere reason to Choose that manifest basis and position of course. Which means they figuratively 'don't have a leg on which to stand' here, and it's blatantly apparent to the rank and file personnel. That is, their manifest situation isn't getting any less [absurd], and the [absurdity] of it is only manifestly compounding. As the manifestly-former organization has relied 'at the higher levels on holding with regard to whether it exists to uphold Divine Will principles and True Nature or not, and on quite a lot of ideological control, that 'loss of face' both figuratively and symbolically can't be especially feasible for those personnel self-identifying with it. How long until even the lowest-rung participant has had enough and refuses to continue on that basis? The grandiose alibis, the professing to Something Greater, has manifestly been lost and is absent. That's hardly 'sustainable'.

The implied 'implication' appears to regard My usage of disclaimers like that with which I'd opened this piece to provide for establishing evidence per Duty to Divine Will, and comparing that to their "[Chaos] mode" 'We're on about all this stuff, but we don't actually mean it and we'd plainly stated that non-overtly.' Comparing unlike things is typical sophistry. It would be quite a thing indeed to be unable to present evidence, openly and overtly, pertaining to manifest wrongdoing merely because the wrongdoing itself is predicated on a counter-Divine Will basis of Lawlessness. That's of course entirely distinct from overtly committing and non-overtly organizing a counter-Divine Will basis flagrantly and systematically using a plethora of unfounded alibis. Both personally and professionally, we see that the overt behavior of these guys isn't Divine Will- and True Nature-consistent. That'd be [earth], and their manifest position there is negated and invalid. That's quite a major invalidation of their manifest position, and relegates them if anything to the non-overt venue. Which is also self-evidently invalid. That'd be [water], at its best and most legitimate pertaining only to interpersonal relationships and occasional training efforts. And we can see they've manifestly jettisoned that too, using it for all manner of other things. So the manifest position there would be "less than [earth], less than [water]", and by their opting into "[Chaos] mode" a systematic Choice to jettison even pretenses to that. Per 'their' own symbolism, that would appear to come out to "polluted water" or something, which does seem to corroborate the idea. But consider for a moment: If something isn't valid [earth], being invalid overtly, and isn't valid [water], being invalid non-overtly, what [element] in fact is it? That would appear to leave them with only [fire]. 'Warfare' and or a counter-Divine Will basis. Appropriately enough, given how fond they appear to be of declaring it symbolically and exemplifying it in their manifest overt activities. Debunking the sophistry is remedial, and I only do it in service to Divine Will and the People to make sure they're not caught up in the error. That's just basic Duty.

Both personally and professionally, we manifestly encounter these people doing less than upholding Divine Will and True Nature and doing it consistently. It's not valid professionally as part of a Divine Will-upholding organization and pattern of behavior. Rushing to hype this or that latest narrative or agenda item and propagate it among personnel non-overtly, even while still wreaking havoc upon the place overtly. It's like some non-overt filibuster, with each unsuccessful attempt merely replaced with the latest attempted alibi to see if that'll work. Even personally, we find these people overtly not being sincere and authentic, doing what they'd do in a relationship by actually overtly having one. Non-overtly, we manifestly get them investing their effort and attention in all manner of agenda items up to and including letting them encroach against the relationship. There's the Choice, there's the prioritization for them. Divine Will, True Nature, even sincere and meaningful interpersonal relationships, all come second if at all to various agenda items of the manifestly-previous organization. Sometimes they'll try to 'hedge their bets', presenting the latest non-overt fads as though alerting to it rather than implementing it themselves, but it's still the Choice to reject living out the genuine article in preference for a lot of investment into 'a nothingburger'. That's just the usual 'idolatry' formula: giving undue value, loyalty and importance to a thing not only of lesser value but actual negative value, in preference for the sincere, legitimate genuine article which deserves it more. [Games], essentially. Investing their efforts, focus and lives into something which is incidental at best to anything Divine Will and True Nature-predicated, and certainly to any basis which is legitimate. An overt equivalent would be when CEOs misrule and misprioritize until the company has been run into the ground. And haven't we just been seeing quite a lot of this in the news recently. 'Twitter', 'Tesla', etc. That's what a position exemplifying [fire] inevitably does.

Between the telepaths and propheciers, the rank and file personnel and the general public we'd manifestly appear to have the brunt of humanity figuratively 'sitting on their hands' when it comes to Choosing in alignment with Divine Will and True Nature, and implementing various 'preferred' misprioritizations instead. Their manifest Choices allow the inherent [absurdity] to just perpetuate, despite there having been no sincere desire for it in the first place. 'They're the same Choice.' Yep, even on the personal and individual level these people are manifestly making the same [absurd] Choice for [fire] that the manifestly-former organization had. What lackluster support for anything worthwhile. It's 'weak sa~~l~~ce' all the w~~o~~rd aro~~u~~nd.

It doesn't make their misprioritization errors corr~~o~~ct through force of numbers, it just leaves humanity nearly as a whole f~~o~~lling off a cl~~i~~ff, and those who aren't misprioritizing there oppressed by the injustices of the majority. Just spiffy. These manifestly-errant people self-evidently aren't manifestly 'on My side', they're not on Divine Will and True Nature's 'side'. In truth there aren't actually any 'sides' there. There's 'within the Law', and there's inevitable 'd~~o~~struction'. Investments in implementing the [absurdities] of the latter is just the Choice for more of the same.

Incidentally, I recently revisited that 'Arch~~i~~r' finale and found that it appears to be preoccupied specifically with the counter-Divine Will position. Though I'd noticed quite a lot of content regarding it originally, that's practically everywhere now so it wasn't exactly 'diff~~e~~rent'. But it appears to be their specific emphasis and focus here. I also noticed the same 'Divine Will alignment is what keeps everything together' concept it presented via 'Mr. Snappy' to be, obvious in retrospect, the same principle I'd applied via My official findings. With all the continued manifest investment in various agenda items despite the absence of that requisite Divine Will and True Nature alignment, these people appear to be trying to continue getting the organizational [integrity] with the advantages that affords, without Choosing the Divine Will priorities that would enable it. Th~~e~~ft from the Divine never succeeds, and just illustrates the Choice for, and compounds the liabilities of, [f~~o~~re].

As for the rank and file personnel, even those to whom I'm most close, figuratively 'all their friends are j~~u~~mping off a cl~~i~~ff' and despite My best efforts to mentor them they've manifestly been quite willing and eager to do it too. That's pretty disappointing both personally and professionally.

An [absurd] manifest w~~o~~rd in which seemingly nobody else, not the telep~~h~~ths and propheciers, not the rank and file, not the public generally, and not even those I've mentored actually Choose to uphold Divine Will and True Nature. I suppose that'll leave quite a lot of literal and figurative 'l~~o~~g room' once the actual nature of their Choice for 'self-d~~o~~struction' inevitably takes effect.

'Making their excuses'

Speaking of 'unsustainable', we'd appear to have various 'important officials' organizing an effort to b[la]g off to their various underground bunkers. Perhaps it's nothing, but here's the pattern I've been seeing. 'Princess Kate' has selected now to have her scheduled abdominal surgery, with a recuperation time of up to two weeks. And per the report, 'News of her surgery came less than an hour before Buckingham Palace said in a statement that her father-in-law, King Charles III, will undergo a "corrective procedure" in the hospital next week' over something distasteful with some counter-Divine Will symbolic connotations. In fact it was the same thing that literal United States Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin had just gotten done, with the international media and national politics making quite a fuss about his unannounced departure. And that item comes accompanied with all manner of [secrecy] and [mystery] symbols that would ordinarily present as a sort of 'major alert' to the manifestly-former Babylonian Kabbalist personnel. And then of course we get the rather illustrative imagery of this headline. So that's, err, interesting. I also notice that the Austin item comes with built-in [k]itsune symbolism via the [alliteration] in his name, and in some of the headlines such as that last. And Britain's version also appears to [tw]in it, with both Kate and Charles 'out of action' on rather similar matters. So again, perhaps it's nothing. But the confluence of these contrived events does at least appear worth some consideration, and I'm presenting them here just as a matter of Duty to Divine Will and a sense of completionism. It's all predicated on a counter-Divine Will basis 'of course', but then manifestly isn't everything they do? I suppose it could all 'invert' to be 'hype machine' stuff for the 'limited exposure' 'patriot troother gurus' scheme, but it's still evidence of conspiracy.

Paranormal evidence

And now for some rather more fun and interesting 'exotic evidence', as they put it in court. I've been keeping back on this for a while, mostly due to the likelihood of a symbolic 'read' causing concerns, were it parsed as such, about My Choice of a Divine Will and True Nature-aligned position for people, mostly professionally but also somewhat personally as it involves literal animals. In the interim though, we've pretty much established that it's not their concern about My Choice of alignment that's the reason for their manifest aberrant Choice of basis, and that the latter tends to complicate things anyway. So while they're already getting complicated for spurious and trivial reasons, I figure I might as well present this evidence because it's comparatively rare and will likely be of interest, perhaps even useful, to the more spiritually and metaphysically inclined readers. Particularly as we strive to build a mental model of what's going on in the metaphysical venue here.

So, literal animals. We know the telepaths and propheciers have the ability to 'read' thoughts, but do they have a commensurate ability to 'write' them too? Apparently yes. In My origin story I think it was, I'd recounted the incident with the otherwise-improbable amounts of pigeons that'd suddenly appeared, and as part of a planned effort by the manifestly-former apostate system. I've encountered a few more instances of it; while My boyfriend and I'd been literally homeless for example and sleeping out in the forest, we'd had a particularly intimate encounter only to notice as we'd been picking up to leave that there on the large trunk of a nearby tree we were being very actively watched by two squirrels, which'd been 'stacked' on top of each other like nesting cups doing what you'd probably assume they were doing. The telepaths and propheciers seem to exert some manner of 'animal influence', in that and various other ways. When they've wanted to signal that they're going into 'nicer mode', however temporarily, as I'm out in nature I'll tend to encounter a statistically abnormal intensity of literal butterflies. Stuff like that. I guess it could be explained by the old folklore about witches able to 'put the fluence' on literal animals, and that'd presumably come as part of the telepathy thing. I've long been familiar with this stuff; as 'weird' as it probably is eventually it just becomes normal and familiar, even routine.

A few months ago, just after whenever it was that I'd presented that 'Faulty Towers' ep and its analytics, I'd been out on the porch on a rather nice day indeed, and sit down comfortably. And just as I did so, gazing off into the middle distance in thought, this literal dragonfly comes along and then slows once in My field of view. And then very slowly, precisely and deliberately it alights onto a leaf in the exact center of My field of vision, right where I'm blanking out at. Uhh, alright. That was a little odd. Perhaps it's nothing. Just in case, I mentally scan the manifest Babylonian symbolism for it, and notice that it's about the only reasonably feasible instance of the [dragon] symbol available in nature in the area, and that it's also got [insect] which'd be another counter-Divine Will declaratory symbol. If it was done deliberately, and if in fact it was meant as a non-overt symbol at all. Putting it aside, I continue with My day. Part of it involves flipping the 'Faulty Towers' eps to scan for evidence and organizing symbolism now that I've recently found one ep to be relevant. And I start noticing another which could be, involving [technology] as a likely symbol given that I've found them to be manifestly using it as a counter-Divine Will [magic] symbol, and the concept of [defiance] which'd of course relate to the "[Chaos] mode" stuff I'd just been on about. And as I'm parsing it for organizing symbolism and non-overt context, and of course overtly enjoying it immensely too, they do a very well-crafted scene which all builds up to the same concept of "dragonfly". Hmm, waitasec. That's a bit odd, don't you think? A rather select and precise symbol you wouldn't expect to encounter twice in a day. And then of course I had to assess for the Duty to present evidence versus the Duty to strive to avoid causing unnecessary confusion to others if parsed as a symbol I'd intended Myself. And so I'd put the whole thing away unshared until the concerns about confusion became self-evidently a non-issue. If they're just going to keep screwing up personally and professionally for any reason or indeed none at all, we can presumably dispense with the pretense about their needing contrived excuses to do so.

And something I'd encountered recently made it 'click' into context as relevant. With a reminder and indeed emphasis that I'm presenting all this exclusively for the purposes of evidence, it's this. It appears it's not only the telepaths and propheciers who can 'influence' the behavior of literal animals. It seems that unfallen angels can, too. Incidentally this is a now-Christian couple giving their personal testimony, and elsewhere in the series and indeed in his career he's presented his own regarding much less reassuring par■normal interference in their lives. It appears they've 'got some attention' from that department, as indeed have I. But what got Me here was that we know, or I already knew, that the tel■paths and propheciers or whatever's underwr■ting their m■jo is c■pable of influencing literal an■mals. And now we find that literal unf■llen angels can and do, too. As an angel-specific c■pability, it would make sense that both the unf■llen and f■llen varieties would have it. And that is entirely relevant when it comes to concerns about what specifically is underwr■ting the m■jo of the t■lepaths and propheciers. It appears to corroborate them quite neatly.

In that context, didn't major politicians of the w■rld systematically put out the organizing rhetoric last year about 'a spir■tual b■ttle' and 'a b■ttle for the soul of the nation', etc.? Zelensky's First Lady, Trump's campaign, Biden, etc.. The organizing rhetoric is still being put out, incidentally. Even Rome is doing it, which is pretty t■lling as to its source. I notice the various politicians never seem to make it overtly plain on which 'side' they are, but presumably they leave it out as that much is self-evident from the results of their various policies both domestic and foreign.

The concept of a human-waged b■ttle on something like that is of course [absurd]. Particularly as those at least implying to wage one are still manifestly and routinely Choosing a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis themselves. 'There is no control without self-control', one of My personal adages. It's just [ego]tism, 'pl■ying dr■ss-up' with spir■tual concepts as a means to rationalize infl■cting ones' Choices on those ar■nd one and actively striving to oppress them even more. And yes 'of course', there's also the comparatively minor angl■ of Rome trying to get itself back onto the international geopolitical st■ge, as well as fl■g its latest Knights of Malta iteration of counterfeit Christianity at the public. But one doesn't 'b■ttle' the Law. One either acknowledges and lives in compliance with it, or does not. Divesting of a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis would of course be the first thing anyone desiring such a 'b■ttle' would do. They don't, so they're still manifestly 'w■rring against physics'. No spo■lers needed there.

But in t■rms of the actual c■smology here, we'd appear to have disparate varieties of angels easily transcending temporal limitations that most people take for granted. We tend to feel instinctively that, 'Time is an illusion' but can't justify it rationally; our scientific, empirical model just doesn't corroborate it. Coming at it spiritually we find Christianity effectively implying that the whole of spacetime, the temporal realm, was effectively established as a kind of 'sandbox' in which the matter of the 'rebellion in Heaven' could be sorted out conclusively. That would appear to have the counter-Divine Will-predicated 'spirit entities' in exile, but still manifestly able to diddle with earthly phenomena including 'see ahead'. That must be fun, being able to see the more-than-figurative will they're fast approaching with [Revelations] etc.. Their deployment both of the paranormal party tricks, and of non-overt strategies and methods within the manifestly-former apostate system, all seem designed for the specific purpose of influencing humans to Choose a counter-Divine Will basis. That likely also accounts for why it's typically insufficient for their purposes to merely override a human's free will using that same 'putting the flume on them' method they use on animals: it wouldn't accomplish the objective, and would more than likely be counterproductive to it. I seem to recall the telepaths and propheciers reportedly alluding to the idea that, 'It's always the eternal Now, all throughout history', and that's very likely the perspective of those with a figurative 'birds-eye view' who can see outside temporal constraints. That they should manifestly keep striving to get people to 'opt into' a counter-Divine Will, counter-True Nature basis even though they can see the eventual and rather near conclusion in which Divine Will directly reasserts the Law and quashes the matter with finality seems pretty harsh, but then it's no less than one would reasonably expect from those implementing a counter-Divine Will basis and routinely defrauding everyone including 'their own' rank and file personnel, both overtly and non-. There's no need to 'worry' against people who are by definition their own worst enemy. They'll do it to themselves, and are on the daily.

I can certainly continue to want better for them, but I can't Choose for them.

I can also want better for Me, such as fair and just treatment from people Choosing a legitimate basis. Instead, both personally and professionally, what I've been manifestly getting is the absence of the Love, and Love for the Law, that comes quite naturally to all of us through our alignment with Divine Will and with the True Nature which It confers upon us.

At any rate I thought the evidence and corroboration of cosmology would be quite interesting, particularly for those readers more interested in spiritual matters and the paranormal. It's also encouraging to remember that the telepaths and propheciers aren't the only ones able to 'play those games'. That's certainly a thing worth knowing.

- [January seventeenth, twenty twenty-four]

All media references presented completely and exclusively as evidence, not even any media references presented for personal or 'friends-plus' relevance purposes.

Redistribute freely, keeping the text as-is.

Social media:

Facebook

Twitter

Discord (for leaving messages and chatting about these topics)

RSS feed

Archive torrent

My exposure sites:

Divine Will Assembly

Lexicon